

Screen Cultures Conference

Friday 3rd and Saturday 4th June 2011
University of Otago, Dunedin, New Zealand

Keynote Speaker:
Professor Francesco Casetti, Yale University
"Some remarks on the relocation of cinema"

For Film, Media and Cultural Studies it is a given that new locations and new media have redefined the experience of watching a moving image; however less attention has been paid to how screen mores, traditions and philosophy might be transformed by the increasing variety of experiences of moving images. In this conference we invite scholars to interrogate screen cultures of the past, present and the future.

Abstracts of 250 words should be sent to Paola.voci@otago.ac.nz by January 31st 2011

Conference Organisers: Dr Paola Voci and Dr Catherine Fowler

"Early film theory and the problem of modernity"

A Masterclass with
Professor Francesco Casetti

Sunday 5th June 2011
University of Otago, Dunedin, New Zealand

We seek applications from postgraduates and early career researchers who wish to take part in this Masterclass. The class will be limited to approximately 15 participants who are engaged in research in film and media studies. More information will be forthcoming in 2011.

The Masterclass is free of charge to successful applicants and will include lunch. Participants from outside Dunedin will need to fund their own accommodation and travel costs.

Deadline for applications is Monday 7 March 2011.

Please email Catherine.fowler@otago.ac.nz to express an interest.
